Al Tulini Promoted to Director of Quality For CDM Electronics

Turnersville, NJ, May 27, 2020... CDM Electronics has announced the promotion of Al Tulini to Director of Quality, overseeing all CDM's ISO-based quality initiatives companywide. Al will oversee quality inspection, manage customer first article test requirements, establish quality standards and coordinate all quality related functions at the Salisbury, MD, Turnersville, NJ and Richardson, TX facilities. Al brings over 30 years of experience in electro-mechanical interconnect device manufacturing and quality management to his new role, where he has specialized in mil-spec and tactical communication support equipment. Al joined CDM's team in 2010 in the position of Quality Engineer, and was most recently Quality Manager at CDM's 25,000-square-foot manufacturing facility in Salisbury, MD. Al has a hands-on knowledge of CDM's companywide production protocols, process instruction development and implementation, and ISO procedure execution which gives him a unique perspective for his new position. Al is a resident of Delaware, and when not working he can be found hunting, fishing or playing golf. Al gives back to the community by holding the office of State Sponsor Chairman for Ducks Unlimited, which supports fundraising efforts for wetlands conservation.
